WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

In February of 1980 President Jimmy Carter issued the first Presidential Proclamation declaring the week of March 8 as National Women's History Week.

Eventually in 197 Congress passed a law which made March Women's History Month. Then in 1988 and 1994 Congress passed additional resolutions requesting President proclaim March each year as Women's History Month.

Women's contributions and accomplishments have largely been overlooked and omitted from mainstream culture.

Women's history education is foundational to achieving gender equity in the United States. When communities learn about women's contributions, struggles, and triumphs in the face of systemic barriers they gain a deeper understanding of the structures that shape our society and the opportunities that lie ahead.

In this pivotal moment of history we are called to confront a range of overlapping global challenges. So lets make an impa
